“This journey has been a dream come true in every sense,” Carse shared following the reveal. “I’m honored and grateful for the support of viewers, the production team, and everyone who has been part of this journey. From the masks to the music, it’s all about reminding people of their worth—and tonight, Canada reminded me of mine.”

The global music sensation, known for selling over 500,000 records and performing anthems of hope worldwide, delivered a spellbinding final performance that secured his victory. Carse will return to the stage in the upcoming The Masked Singer Canada Christmas Special, airing this December on TVA+.

This triumphant moment marks a defining highlight in Carse's decades-long global career, and arrives alongside a wave of major creative milestones, including a new studio album (Praise and Worship), a powerful new autobiography (The Impossible Dream), and an uplifting new children's book (I Am Awesomely Made). All three projects will be available everywhere today (November 24, 2025).

Fresh off his Masked Singer triumph, Carse unveils these deeply personal projects:

* Album: Praise and Worship – A soul-stirring collection of his most timeless songs. This album includes three new unreleased tracks.

* Autobiography: The Impossible Dream (Available in English and French in Print, Digital and Audio) – Carse's deeply personal memoir traces his remarkable rise—from early chart-topping success in Canada and abroad, to moments of heartache, spiritual transformation, and renewed purpose. The Impossible Dream reveals the man behind the music with honesty, humility, and hope.

* Children's Book: I Am Awesomely Made (English) – Inspired by his anti-bullying anthem "Awesome," Carse's new children's book (from his non-profit Y iCount) empowers young readers to embrace their identity, self-worth, and God-given value. Through encouraging storytelling and with vibrant illustrations, the book offers practical support for children facing bullying, insecurity, or challenges to their confidence.
