Hestia's mission is to give growth-stage companies enterprise-level infrastructure without enterprise-level overhead.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, November 25, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hestia Insight Inc. (OTCQB: HSTA) today announced the imminent launch of The PR Strategist and outlined its broader AI-driven mission to streamline how emerging public and private companies manage regulatory, financial, and operational demands. Hestia's mission is to give growth-stage companies enterprise-level infrastructure without enterprise-level overhead. The company is developing a unified suite of AI applications that automate regulatory tracking, contract and disclosure review, financial modeling, fraud detection, and high-volume administrative workflows, tools traditionally requiring large internal teams or costly external service providers. The goal: help lean companies stay compliant, move faster, and direct more capital toward growth.

As part of this expansion, Hestia is preparing to launch The PR Strategist, an AI-powered communications tool designed to help companies reduce dependence on traditional PR agencies. Trained on thousands of press releases and regulatory frameworks, the platform provides same-day content generation with built-in compliance checks, and optional professional review offering an in-house alternative to high-cost retainers and long turnaround times.

Hestia also offers Pat-Agent AI, a patent-support platform for small and mid-size companies that delivers legal and strategic IP assistance at significantly lower cost than traditional law-firm-based services.

"For years, the necessary overhead of being a public company felt like a tax on innovation. With the strategic deployment of these AI applications, we are fundamentally decoupling our growth ambitions from ballooning operational costs," said Edward C. Lee CEO of Hestia Insight Inc.
