With enterprises increasingly embracing AI-driven innovation, Bell’s services offer robust solutions to design, build, and optimise Agentic AI, a new class of self-directed, reasoning AI agents capable of delivering strategic value with reduced operational overhead.

“As AI accelerates across the UK economy, we’re seeing a surge in interest from organisations looking to implement autonomous systems that can operate with purpose, integrity, and efficiency,” said Faisal Abbasi, AI & Data Executive Director at Bell Integration. “Our Agentic AI and FinOps offerings are designed to help British businesses scale responsibly, ensuring both performance and cost governance in highly complex environments.”

Accelerating AI Maturity with Agentic Intelligence

The expanded offering includes:

- Agentic AI Development – Building and deploying AI agents that reason, act independently, and deliver outcomes across a range of enterprise workflows
- Agentic FinOps – Providing visibility, control, and optimisation over AI infrastructure spending, especially in dynamic multi-cloud environments
- Sector-focused delivery – Specialising in retail, finance, government, manufacturing, and healthcare
- Onshore expertise – UK-based consultants and delivery teams with experience in mission-critical environments

This expansion supports UK companies in aligning with the UK AI Strategy and the government's commitment to safe and effective AI adoption at scale.
