Lifeline Launches New Website With

Expanded Tools to Support Patients Facing High Medication Costs

Prescription Lifeline, a family-owned patient advocacy company based in Central Texas, has launched a newly redesigned website that makes it easier for people across the country to understand and access support for high-cost prescription medications. Although the website has a fresh new look, the team's commitment to exceptional, compassionate customer service remains exactly the same.

A major upgrade includes a new $10 low-cost evaluation, giving individuals a simple and affordable way to check if they may qualify for patient assistance programs using only basic information. This helps people get quick answers without committing to full-service advocacy.

The updated site also introduces a growing Blog & Education section, offering clear, helpful content about medication savings, program updates, and practical tips for managing high prescription costs.

Prescription Lifeline proudly serves members nationwide, supporting patients in all 50 states with the same personalized, high-touch advocacy the company has built its reputation on.

More enhancements are already in development. New service tiers and expanded educational resources will be added soon, giving patients even more options and clarity on the support available to them.

For over two decades, Prescription Lifeline has helped individuals and families throughout the United States access life-changing medications they otherwise could not afford. The redesigned website reflects this ongoing mission to remove barriers, empower patients, and make the path to medication access easier for everyone.
