

Gluckstein Lawyers Launches Comprehensive Resource Guide for Families Affected by Pediatric Brain and Birth Injuries

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA,
November 26, 2025 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Gluckstein Lawyers today announced the launch of "Helping Families Heal: Support Resources for Pediatric Brain and Birth Injuries," a new online resource designed to assist families navigating the complexities of life after a pediatric injury. This initiative reflects our firm's long-standing commitment to providing care, compassion, and guidance during life's most challenging moments.

Recognizing the overwhelming experience families face following a birth or brain injury diagnosis, we have developed this centralized hub to bring together practical information and vital support. The resource aims to empower families with knowledge as they manage their new reality, offering guidance on everything from understanding a diagnosis to accessing necessary services and equipment across Canada.

The "Helping Families Heal" guide provides users with actionable information to help them make informed decisions. A key feature of the resource is an interactive map that allows families to easily filter and find specific brain injury and birth injury resources by province, ensuring they can connect with local support networks and services efficiently.

We invite everyone to review this guide and share it with families and caregivers who could benefit, and we welcome suggestions for additional resources that could enhance its value. If

This guide was developed by Brenda Agnew, a former client, and Jan Marin, a senior associate at Gluckstein Lawyers who works closely with families impacted by medical negligence resulting in birth or brain injury. Their combined experience and dedication have shaped a comprehensive, empathetic resource tailored to the unique needs of those affected.

We invite families, caregivers, and healthcare professionals to explore this new resource. By providing accessible tools and consolidated information, our firm continues to honour our commitment to full-circle-care. We stand beside families and are here to offer meaningful support beyond legal advocacy.
