

B.L.A.C.Mail Productions Celebrates 15th Annual World AIDS Day Event Honoring the Past, Empowering the Future, on Dec. 6

Guided by the theme "Honoring the Past. Empowering the Future," this year's ceremony elevates champions, advocates, and everyday heroes through The HERE Awards

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, November 26, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In commemoration of World AIDS Day, B.L.A.C.Mail Productions, Inc. presents its 15th Annual World AIDS Day Event—a milestone celebration of resilience, remembrance, and community. Guided by the theme "Honoring the Past. Empowering the Future," this year's program is on Saturday, December 6, 2025, at the DTLA Skyline Penthouse, 224 East 11th Street, Suite 601, Los Angeles, CA 90015. The event shines a much-deserved light on local champions through The HERE Awards Ceremony, recognizing advocates, community leaders, and everyday heroes driving meaningful change in the fight against HIV/AIDS.

As the founder of B.L.A.C.Mail Productions, Inc., Spencer M. Collins IV emphasizes the urgency behind the work: "We're here to remind people that knowledge is power, stigma is the enemy, and together, we can end the epidemic." He affirms that the 2025 World AIDS Day celebration remains a call to action rooted in compassion, visibility, and hope.

"This 15th year is a testament to the power of art and community," said Collins. "For fifteen years, we've used storytelling to transform pain into purpose, shame into strength, and silence into visibility." Since its founding, the organization has honored over 200 community members, connected countless individuals to care, and created spaces for open dialogue, acceptance, and
