As part of this appointment, Orthogonal Thinker has been named Strategic Sponsor of Blockstreet. In this role, the company will guide USD1-native issuers through a three-step process encompassing issuer selection and diligence, capital formation with integrated banking and on-ramp solutions, and the development of liquidity programs and market structure to support sustainable market growth.

This collaboration advances Orthogonal's recently launched Capital Infrastructure Group, which develops durable capital frameworks connecting digital assets, AI, clean energy, and DePIN-based infrastructure through USD1 rails and institutional governance.

“Markets reward patience and conviction,” said David Nikzad, Founder & CEO of Orthogonal Thinker and Head of Capital Markets at Blockstreet. “What Blockstreet is building is real capital infrastructure – transparent, compliant, and built to last. As Strategic Sponsor and Head of Capital Markets, our job is simple: bring great issuers, align serious capital, and execute.”

Nikzad's appointment builds on Orthogonal's ongoing expansion across decentralized infrastructure and digital capital markets, following his recent leadership role announcement with World Mobile Token (WMTx) and underscoring a shared mission to connect real-world systems with tokenized, compliant capital models.

"Blockstreet was founded to build real capital infrastructure for the next generation of digital markets. Partnering with Orthogonal Thinker elevates that mission.
