What Are The Top Trends In The Food Contact Paper Industry?

The trend of sustainable and creative packaging is gaining traction in markets for consumer and food contact papers. A primary strategy for major players in the food contact papers market is innovating packaging solutions that are eco-friendly for fresh foods to consolidate their market presence. For instance, Novolex, a prominent US packaging product manufacturer, introduced Power Prep in April 2023. This new product line consists of laminated insulated packaging created specifically for fresh food items. Power Prep by Novolex employs a non-fluorinated paper resistant to oil and grease, integrated with a pattern resembling honeycomb to create an insulative layer. In addition to this, the packaging is tougher against punctures compared to traditional ones made of foil or foil/paper structures. Furthermore, it incorporates anti-curling features to facilitate flat sheeting when preparing foods on a large scale.
