Entrex's participation highlights the company's continued progress in scaling its environmentally beneficial power-production initiatives, including U.S. manufacturing of methane-mitigation power units and the deployment of cash-flowing Bitcoin Mining Units (BMUs) through its “Design. Deliver. Deposit. Repeat.” model.

“We appreciate Noble's continued support in helping connect innovative companies with the institutional capital markets,” said Stephen H. Watkins, CEO of Entrex. “NobleCon has always been a high-value forum for telling corporate stories and expanding relationships with aligned investors and strategic partners.”
