HOUSTON, TX, UNITED STATES,
December 1, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/

-- The Energy Conference Network is excited to announce the return of its premier event, the 11th Annual AI in Oil & Gas Conference, set to take place in Houston on April 8-9, 2026. The conference, which is a critical platform for collaboration and knowledge sharing, is expected to convene over 500 senior executives, technical innovators, and operational leaders dedicated to advancing the energy industry through artificial intelligence and digital transformation.

“

We are proud to once again host the industry's most influential minds as they share practical strategies for leveraging AI to enhance efficiency, safety, and sustainability.”

*Symon Rubens, CEO, Energy
Conference Network*

“The pace of AI adoption in the energy sector is accelerating, and our 11th Annual AI in Oil & Gas Conference will be the definitive forum for charting the course of this digital revolution,” said Symon Rubens, CEO, Energy Conference Network. “We are proud to once again host the industry's most influential minds as they share practical strategies for leveraging AI to enhance efficiency, safety, and sustainability.”

We would also like to welcome back our Lead Sponsor,
