New Program Combines Insurance, Repair, and Protection into One Streamlined Solution

CELLAIRIS®

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES,

December 2, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Cellairis, a leading provider of mobile device accessories, certified repair services, and protection solutions, introduces an expanded partnership with Delcom Group through a new alliance with AKKO, a technology-driven device protection platform. The collaboration brings together three leaders in mobile technology, logistics and insurance to deliver a unified solution for device protection and solutions. This is particularly relevant for tablet fleets used in enterprise or ideal for schools managing large Chromebook networks.

Partnering with a company like Cellairis allows us to move fast and deliver real solutions when our customers need them most.”

Sean Delph, Founder and Executive Director of Delcom Group

Building on a partnership between Cellairis and Delcom, this new alliance adds AKKO's streamlined, transparent insurance platform to an already robust ecosystem of repair, fulfillment, and device support services. Together, the three companies are helping organizations simplify how they deploy, protect and maintain mobile technology at scale- covering everything from accessories and repair to coverage and claims.

“Partnering with a company like Cellairis allows us to move fast and deliver real solutions when our customers need them most,” said Sean Delph, Founder and Executive Director of Delcom Group. “When schools are facing new demands or shifting priorities, it's important to work with organizations that share our focus on practical results for educators and students.”

“Districts are being asked to do more with less, which makes fairly priced, high-performing technology solutions more critical than ever,” said Francois Franco, Vice President of Revenue Strategy & Group Sales at AKKO. “We've built protection platforms that keep schools firmly in control of the claims process—whether the district funds the plans or families do. By joining forces with Cellairis and Delcom, we're helping schools protect their devices, reduce administrative burden, and ensure students stay connected to learning.”

The alliance combines AKKO's expertise in device protection, Cellairis' nationwide customized solutions, accessories network, and Delcom's fulfillment and enterprise service capabilities. Together, companies provide a comprehensive, scalable solution for organizations seeking reliable protection, fast repair turnaround and simplified technology management.
