

AEDserviceAmerica.com Strengthens National Safety Standards With Enhanced AED Service Contracts

WINDSOR LOCKS, CT, UNITED STATES, December 4, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- AEDserviceAmerica.com, the only company in North America dedicated exclusively to nationwide AED maintenance and management, today announced an expanded suite of AED service contracts designed to meet escalating Regulatory and Compliance demands for organizations responsible for life-saving Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs). With failure rates for self-managed AEDs still exceeding 20% in many environments, the company's enhanced Compliance Services aim to ensure every AED is Response Ready™ at the moment it matters most.

For more than a decade, AEDserviceAmerica.com has provided compliant, on-site AED inspections, documentation, and asset management across all 50 states. Unlike companies that sell AEDs as a sideline to first aid products or CPR training, AEDserviceAmerica.com sole mission is maintaining AEDs at the highest possible standard—an approach that has resulted in less than 1% annual churn and 100% client retention for more than a decade.

AED maintenance/management in all 50 States

AED SERVICE AMERICA RESPONSE READY TECHNICIAN

As new state laws, industry standards, and OSHA expectations tighten around AED program oversight, organizations are facing greater scrutiny than ever before. Many state health departments, along with federal agencies and legal advisory groups, now emphasize that AED owners must maintain accurate records, replace expiring pads and batteries on schedule, and ensure units are inspected at regular intervals by trained personnel.

AED SERVICE AMERICA, onsite, compliant AED maintenance and management in 50 States

These evolving Regulatory and Compliance requirements have left many employers unsure whether their current AED management approach is sufficient. Remote monitoring alone—while valuable—cannot replace physical inspection. A device may appear connected digitally while still failing due to expired pads, depleted batteries, missing supplies, or environmental damage.

“AED readiness isn’t optional,” said Doug Comstock, Director of Business Development at AEDserviceAmerica.com. “If an AED fails during a cardiac emergency, the consequences are immediate, permanent, and preventable. Our expanded AED service contracts and Compliance Services give organizations confidence that their AEDs will work when they are needed most.”

A Unique Model: Real Technicians, Real Oversight, Real-Time Verification

AEDserviceAmerica.com remains the only AED maintenance provider that verifies the work of every technician in real time. Each certified Response Ready Technician submits a field report and real-time photo documentation directly to headquarters before leaving the site. The home office reviews and approves each report, ensuring nothing is missed and eliminating the risk of inspection errors.

Over the last five years, the company has achieved an unmatched record of responding to AED deployments or out-of-service notifications within hours—often in less than four hours nationwide. This level of responsiveness is embedded into all tiers of the company’s AED service contracts, including Bronze, Silver, Gold, and Platinum.

Addressing Compliance From Every Angle

The company’s enhanced Compliance Services address critical components of AED program management, including:

On-site inspections and functional testing

Regulatory and Compliance documentation

Manufacturer-required part replacement

Asset management and serial tracking

Emergency response support

Technician-verified maintenance

Annual and quarterly inspection schedules

Guaranteed response for out-of-service AEDs

These services help organizations meet or exceed all current Regulatory and Compliance standards, including manufacturer guidelines, state mandates, AED program reporting, and OSHA-driven workplace expectations.

A Solution for Every Industry

From Fortune 500 corporations to universities, aviation hubs, hotels, K-12 schools, manufacturing facilities, and national retail chains, AEDserviceAmerica.com AED service contracts provide scalable protection with predictable pricing and guaranteed results.

“Our mission is simple,” said Nate Marin, Vice President of Operations. “Every AED we inspect today must still be working a year from now when we return. Compliance Services shouldn’t be reactive—they should provide true peace of mind.”
