Beuker is a globally sought-after futurist who has delivered 2,500+ keynotes worldwide. He's also a five-time exited entrepreneur and an early investor in exponential tech startups that have reshaped industries.

“Igor has a rare sixth sense for trends and a prediction accuracy rate of 84%. His experience scaling global brands and spotting tech trends a decade ahead is exactly what we need to accelerate our vision and solidify our leadership in the global AR market,” said Wesley Pabis, Co-Founder of Augmento.

Igor Beuker said: “AR is one of the most user-friendly and immersive technologies we've ever seen. Just look at the scale and stickiness of Pokémon Go. That kind of global engagement unlocks massive 'tech for good' opportunities, and Augmento is ready to lead the charge.”

Operating since 2023, Augmento blends cutting-edge AR technology with real-world use cases: from art and location-based experiences, to real estate and luxury, and branded activations with digital layers. With global momentum building, and the AR market expected to hit $600 billion by 2030, Augmento is poised to redefine how the world sees, interacts with, and engages with digital content.
