career and professional growth, announces keynote roster for the Spring 2026 CFO Leadership Conference, returning to Boston, June 3–5, 2026. The three-day program is engineered for senior finance leaders who own outcomes providing practical operating models to de-risk decisions, fund innovation with discipline, compress cycle times, and harden the enterprise against volatility.

SPRING 2026 KEYNOTE LINEUP:

Charlie Wagner – EVP and Chief Operating & Financial Officer, Vertex Pharmaceuticals on Navigating Uncertainty in Biotech.

Wagner will share how CFOs can partner across the enterprise to fuel innovation, scale for growth, and drive operational excellence, while delivering exceptional financial performance.

Karen Walker — CFO & Office of the CEO, Sysdig on Scaling in the Cloud Era.

A veteran of Uber, Pandora, and PagerDuty, Walker will outline high-velocity finance models that remove friction from deal-to-cash, align finance with product and go-to-market, and govern cyber and AI risk while supporting global scale.

Gina Goetter — CFO & COO, Hasbro, Inc on Reinventing Play.

Goetter brings the inside story of transforming a 100-year-old brand portfolio in a digital-first world; how CFOs simplify complex portfolios, protect brand equity, and lead dual transformations, from physical to digital and legacy to future all while strengthening margins.

Kate Gulliver — CFO & CAO, Wayfair on E-Commerce Leadership in a New Era.

Gulliver will unpack how Wayfair connects people, talent, technology, and financial strategy; use data and AI to sharpen pricing, inventory, and customer experience; and make high-confidence investments in dynamic markets.

Dr. Tim Naddy — Vice President of Finance, Savannah Bananas on Swing for the Fences. What can a sellout sensation in sports teach finance? Naddy will highlight how customer-centric metrics, bold experimentation, and finance-as-enabler drive outsized demand and scalable operations without losing identity.

Together, these voices have been intentionally curated to reflect where the role of the CFO is heading and to arm attendees with proven approaches they can adapt to their own context. “CFOs tell me they want real-world ideas they can put to work—not hype. This lineup brings together leaders who’ve been in the trenches and know how to drive growth, manage risk, and build stronger, more resilient finance organizations.” said Jack McCullough, President & Founder, CFO Leadership Council.
