Inspired by One Family's Story, Driven by a Community's Heart

Cars for Cause was inspired by Luis Valencia, an Alpine resident and founder of LV Marketing 360. Luis has a son, Augustine, who is autistic. Their personal journey navigating autism became the catalyst for creating an event that could raise awareness, foster understanding, and bring the community together around important causes.

“The 3rd Annual Cars for Cause is more than a car show. It’s a way to unite our community around causes that matter,” says Luis Valencia, founder of LV Marketing 360. “We launched this event to celebrate the people who make Alpine special, to support organizations doing vital work, and to create a tradition that brings joy and purpose every single year. Supporting the San Diego Autism Society this year is deeply meaningful to me as a parent.”

Alpine resident and founder of The JKO Agency, Jessica Kopach, adds:

“Cars for Cause reflects everything I love about Alpine—community, heart, generosity, and people showing up for each other. As a local, it’s an honor to help bring this event to life and help it grow. This is the type of event that reminds people what community really means.”
