

30 Years and still producing World Class Results - The Results of the 2025 Australian & New Zealand Boutique Wine Awards

Celebrating its 30th year, this prestigious event received 630 entries from across Australia & New Zealand and has been hailed a massive success yet again.

“ Despite tough conditions in the wine industry, the quality of wines was at an all time high! What a great way to acknowledge 30 years of supporting the small winemakers of Australia & New Zealand!”

Ross Anderson, Director - Boutique Wine Awards

SYDNEY, NSW, AUSTRALIA, December 5, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The 2025 Australian & New Zealand Boutique Wine Awards have come to a close, and despite the incredibly tough trading conditions, the results once again show just how incredibly strong the small winemakers of Australia & New Zealand are. Established in 1996 and celebrating its 30th year, this prestigious event received 630 entries from all corners of Australia & New Zealand. With 17 classes judged by 10 of the countries' very best wine minds and chaired by Toni Paterson MW, this year's awards have been hailed as a huge success despite tricky market conditions.

The Australian & New Zealand Boutique Wine Awards is a highly anticipated event in the wine industry, recognizing and celebrating the best boutique wines from these two countries. A boutique winery is defined as crushing 250 tonne or less and being independently owned and operated. This year's competition was fierce, with a diverse range of entries from established wineries to up-and-coming boutique producers. The judging panel, made up of 10 of Australia's leading winemakers, sommeliers and wine writers, had the difficult task of selecting the best wines in each of the 17 classes.

The overall caliber of entries received was incredibly high, and the winners are nothing short of exceptional. The competition was fierce, and the judges had their work cut out for them. However, with the expertise of the 10 best wine minds in the country and the leadership of Toni Paterson MW, the awards have been hailed as a huge success. This year's winners represent the very best of the boutique wine industry in Australia and New Zealand, and their success is a testament to their dedication and passion for producing exceptional wines.
