What Are The Current Leading Growth Drivers For Bag-in-box Containers Market?

The bag-in-box containers market is anticipated to thrive under the escalating expansion of the food and beverage sector. This industry includes the creation, processing, selling, and distribution of food and beverages. Bag-in-box containers, typically used to package fluids like juices, wines, and syrups in this sector, are adopted for their benefits such as improved shelf life, simple transportation, and minimal packaging waste. April 2022 reports by the Common Thread Collective, a US-based e-commerce growth agency, stated that global food and beverage sales were $506 billion in 2022, with projections to soar to $857 billion by 2025. According to a September 2022 report by Statistics Sweden, a government agency in Sweden, food and drink revenue was $30.74 billion (SEK 334 billion) in 2021, a rise of 2.9%, or $8.28 billion (SEK 9 billion), from 2020. Hence, the continuous rise of the food and beverage sector is fueling the bag-in-box containers market expansion.
