-- Leado announces the launch of its Reddit AI agent, a tool designed to help businesses discover high intent leads from Reddit in real time. Reddit has become a trusted platform for product recommendations and peer advice. Leado scans conversations across thousands of subreddits and alerts users instantly when someone asks for solutions that match their product or service.

Many founders and marketers struggle to monitor Reddit manually. Opportunities are often missed because conversations move fast and buyers rarely wait. Leado solves this challenge with real time monitoring, intent analysis, and instant notifications that enable businesses to engage at the right moment.

We built Leado to help businesses find real buying intent at the exact moment people ask for solutions on Reddit.”

Key features include:

- Real time tracking of Reddit posts across thousands of subreddits
- AI intent detection that identifies buyer signals
- Custom keyword monitoring for any niche

- A natural, non spam approach to engaging potential customers

Early adopters have reported faster lead discovery and improved conversions from Reddit as a new high intent acquisition channel.
