“Community involvement has been at the heart of our business from day one,” said Nelson. “We believe that running a company means contributing to the well-being and success of the families and organizations around us.”

Supporting Local Schools and Youth Programs

This year, Stars and Pipes Plumbing Atlanta proudly sponsored both the Parkview High School football team and the Hanarry West Dolphins swim team in Lilburn. These partnerships reflect the company's priority of supporting youth programs that build confidence, character, and teamwork.

"We love showing up for programs that help kids grow," Nelson said. "When local athletes and students know their community is behind them, it makes a huge difference."

A Veteran-Owned Business Built on Service

Nelson's background in military service strongly influences Stars and Pipes Plumbing Atlanta's community-first philosophy. After serving in the U.S. Army and completing a rigorous five-year plumbing apprenticeship, he brought the values of discipline, integrity, and service into the civilian world.

That same commitment now guides the company's involvement in local events, outreach efforts, and regional support initiatives.

"Giving back isn't a marketing strategy for us," said Nelson. "It's a responsibility."

Helping Atlanta Families Beyond Plumbing Repairs

In addition to school sponsorships, Stars and Pipes Plumbing Atlanta regularly participates in neighborhood events, supports local causes, and ensures families receive honest and reliable help when plumbing issues arise.

"We want people to know they can rely on us during stressful home repairs, but also that we're invested in this community year-round," said Nelson.

Expanding Community Efforts in 2025 and Beyond

Stars and Pipes Plumbing Atlanta owner Sean Nelson is proud to be featured in the recent Our Town Gwinnett Magazine November 2025 Green Edition highlighting his work in the community.

Stars and Pipes Plumbing Atlanta plans to continue forming partnerships with local schools, youth organizations, and community groups throughout 2025. The company also intends to launch new community engagement efforts aimed at helping families navigate home maintenance challenges with confidence and peace of mind.

“Our goal isn’t just to be a plumbing company,” Nelson said. “Our goal is to be a positive presence in Metro Atlanta for years to come.”
