The Foundation for PM&R - a nonprofit 501(c)(3) charitable organization - is the only organization dedicated to psychiatric research. To date, over $2.5 million in research grant support has been provided, funding 160 research projects. Grant recipients used Foundation-funded findings to secure more than $28 million in additional funding; 70% of grant recipients presented their findings at a national medical society meeting; and 66% published them in a peer-reviewed journal. 100% of grant recipients from the last 10 years have continued their research.

“FPM&R appreciates Nobis' commitment to innovative research and scientific excellence, and their generous support of this research grant. We are thrilled to offer greatly needed funding in this vital area of patient care and rehabilitation,” said Executive Director Phyllis J. Anderson, MA, of the Foundation for PM&R.

“This research grant from Nobis represents a vital step forward in improving care and outcomes for individuals facing disabling illnesses or injuries who require inpatient rehabilitation.

Supporting innovative research in this field is essential to advancing psychiatric medicine and patient recovery,” said Dexanne Clohan, MD, Nobis Board of Directors and a former President of the FPM&R.
