Physician recruitment startup Beginly Health acquires ProviderJobs.com to accelerate growth and expand executive team

PORTLAND, OR, UNITED STATES, December 10, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Beginly Health, an innovator in the healthcare recruitment space, today announced its acquisition of ProviderJobs.com.

The ProviderJobs app allows physicians to discover their next role by watching short, recruiter-generated videos. From within the app, users can filter opportunities by specialty, location or salary, and swipe right to apply. Independent user testing showed 70% of candidates preferred the ProviderJobs design to traditional job boards. While still in beta, the app reached #17 in the Business category on the App Store, attracting more than 3,000 users.

The acquisition represents a milestone for the Beginly team.

“Our motivation here is twofold,” said Stephanie Grein, Co-Founder and CEO of Beginly. “First, it’s about integrating the ProviderJobs technology to accelerate our roadmap and enhance the user experience. Second, it’s about growing our core team in a strategic way.”

ProviderJobs’ founder Brian Forrester is an industry veteran, with multiple exits in the recruitment technology vertical. “As I got to know the team at Beginly, it became clear that we shared the same thesis and our technologies were complementary. Several large companies expressed M&A interest, but Beginly stood out as the best match,” said Forrester, who is joining Beginly as Chief Product Officer.

Both companies are headquartered in Portland, Oregon, a growing hub for healthcare innovation.

Founded in 2023, Beginly Health previously secured $3.7M in pre-seed funding from investors including Village Global and Rogue Women’s Fund. To learn more about Beginly Health visit: www.beginlyhealth.com.
