

SGS Expands UK Capabilities With New Consumer Goods Testing Facility in Manchester

BAAR, SWITZERLAND, December 9, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SGS, the world's leading testing, inspection and certification company, is pleased to announce the opening of its new cutting-edge, UKAS-accredited testing facility in Manchester.

The new laboratory strengthens SGS's capabilities in hardlines and electrical and electronic (E&E) product testing, helping manufacturers and retailers comply with UK and international regulatory requirements. Its central location enables faster testing cycles, easier client access and seamless integration with SGS's global network of technical experts.

For the E&E sector, the facility offers comprehensive testing for a wide range of products, including lighting equipment, household appliances, automotive components and medical devices. Services include physical testing, electromagnetic pre- and full-compliance testing and advanced connectivity and cybersecurity solutions, such as 5G testing, Bluetooth evaluation and PTCRB certification.

The expert team also provides physical and chemical testing for hardlines, covering products such as toys, furniture, building materials, jewellery and cookware, alongside inspection services across the full product life cycle to help businesses ensure quality, safety and regulatory compliance.
