EINPresswire.com/ -- The partnership between Rinova AI and TechMatter brings autonomous AI Agents to revenue cycle management companies, delivering faster reimbursements, higher accuracy, and stronger margins for both RCM companies and U.S. healthcare practices.

In an evolving market, billing companies have struggled to maintain margins and growth. Rinova's AI-first RCM model expands market share by cutting billing costs down by 90% and automating 85% of RCM.”

Rihan Javid, CEO Rinova AI

Rinova AI, an Agentic AI software purpose-built for Revenue Cycle Management (RCM), today announced a strategic partnership with TechMatter, a leading medical billing, managed IT and revenue cycle service provider. The collaboration introduces autonomous AI Agents across key billing workflows - helping RCM providers protect margins, scale capacity, and compete as “AI-first” partners to healthcare organizations.

“Adopting AI is the difference between leading and lagging behind as we head into 2026. We’re choosing to lead,” said

Mubashir Hanif, CEO of TechMatter. “By choosing Rinova AI, we’re not experimenting with AI - we’re operationalizing it. Our teams can close the day in hours, not days, hit cleaner claims on the first pass, and show measurable improvements in DSO and collections. This is how we win and keep clients.”

What’s launching

Eligibility & Prior Authorization Agents – Orchestrate payer checks and approvals, reducing denials.

Medical Coding Agent – Reviews encounter notes and recommends accurate codes to maximize compliant reimbursement.

Claims Scrub & Submission Agent – Applies live payer rules to improve clean-claim rate before submission.

Denial Management & A/R Follow-up Agent – Detects at-risk claims, automates appeals, and works on aging systematically.

Payment Posting & Reconciliation Agent – Posts EOB/ERA, flags underpayments, and tightens revenue leakage.

Rinova's AI Agents perform the same steps human teams do across EMRs, clearinghouses, and payer portals - complemented by human-in-the-loop review, audit trails, and exception handling. Internal deployments have shown 90% cost reductions, seconds-level task execution, and 98%+ accuracy across targeted workflows, enabling true same-day billing at scale.

"In an evolving market, billing companies have struggled to maintain margins and growth," said Dr. Rihan Javid, Founder & CEO, Rinova AI. "Rinova AI is purpose-built for medical billing companies. Together with TechMatter, we're proving that AI-first RCM isn't a future promise, it's today's operating model that expands market share and margins."
