

CDJ Enterprises launches 'Eugene The Wayward Frog,' an inspiring true-story-based tale of courage and self-discovery

CA, UNITED STATES, December 10, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- CDJ Enterprises proudly launches "Eugene the Wayward Frog" by founder Cornelius Neo Wright. It is a children's book based on a true story: In 2018, the Wright family found a live frog in their daughter Anikka's suitcase during a road trip from Berkeley to Tacoma, Washington. They released the frog near the Willamette River and named him Eugene, inspiring this heartfelt story.

Eugene the Wayward Frog follows a dreamer frog who, encouraged by his uncle and friend Anikka, takes a courageous leap in search of "Frogeaven" and self-discovery, reminding readers that bold dreams require bold actions.

Cornelius Neo Wright, founder of CDJ Enterprises and author of the book, shares:

"Everyone has dreams, and Eugene's journey reminds us that dreamers of any age or background can shape the world. This story is for any child who has ever felt different or out of place, but believes they are meant for something special."
