

iKIPPAHS.com Sets New Standard for Wholesale Kippah Design with Satin, Suede, Linen, and Leather Looks

iKIPPAHS.com expands its wholesale kippah offerings with satin, suede, linen, and leather looks, giving buyers more design, pattern, and customization options.

NY, UNITED STATES, December 16, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- iKIPPAHS.com today announced

Our goal is to give wholesale partners kippahs that feel current while remaining reliable. Materials, fit, and flexibility guide every assortment we build.”

Co-Founder

an increased emphasis on fashion-forward patterns and materials in its wholesale kippah assortments, aligning its B2B offerings with the brand's design-led approach and demand from retailers, synagogue gift shops, schools, and event planners. Building on its well-known mix of core solids and inventive patterns, the company highlights material choices that include satin, suede, linen, and leather looks—supported by a consistent fit and an expanding catalog of styles.

The update underscores a merchandising direction that blends traditional aesthetics with modern texture and color stories. iKIPPAHS assortments feature both ready-to-wear selections and customizable options for lifecycle events and institutional needs. In addition to classic solids, buyers can explore a wide range of patterns (e.g., plaid, floral, sports, space, and abstract) and seasonal capsules, as well as creative formats such as the Color Me Mine collection.

Trend-led materials, practical variety

According to the company's published catalog, iKIPPAHS offers a wide range of materials, including satin, suede, linen, cotton, velvet, denim, leather, brocade, corduroy, knit, and more—each available in multiple colors and styles to support curated displays and event themes. This flexibility helps wholesale buyers balance everyday velocity from core colors with the visual impact of statement materials and limited-run patterns.

Customization and bulk orders for events and institutions iKIPPAHS notes that it accepts custom bulk orders for synagogues, weddings, schools, and parties, and can tailor material, color, fabric, pattern, and size to meet specific needs. The brand's custom program is designed to help buyers align kippahs with brand standards, school uniforms, event palettes, or donor recognition, while maintaining consistency in sizing and construction across large orders.

Assortment planning for retail and institutional buyers

To help buyers plan replenishment and features throughout the year, iKIPPAHS maintains a rhythm of new fabrics and designs, with collections refreshed regularly. The company's published FAQs indicate that new designs are introduced monthly and that orders typically ship within two business days for standard purchases, with worldwide shipping available. Buyers can plan around holiday calendars and event seasons by pairing core solids with rotating pattern capsules and material-forward stories.

Product families and fit

Wholesale-relevant selections span solids and patterns across casual, formal, school, and conservative styles, in both flat and dome fits. The brand emphasizes fully lined construction and mainstream sizing alignment to support consistent fit across reorders. This combination—fit, finish, and material variety—aims to simplify planogram updates and ensure predictable guest experiences across venues and events.

Highlights for buyers

- Material-forward looks: satin, suede, linen, leather, velvet, denim, and more.
- Core solids plus pattern capsules (e.g., plaid, floral, sports, space, abstract).
- Custom bulk orders for synagogues, weddings, schools, and community events.
- Fully lined construction and mainstream sizing alignment.
- Regular design refreshes to support seasonal features and replenishment.
