

JAZZ ACADEMY OF MUSIC ANNOUNCES THE JAM LEGACY FELLOWSHIP

Uplifting Senior Musicians Whose Contributions Have Shaped the DMV Jazz Community

SILVER SPRING, MD, UNITED STATES, December 22, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Jazz Academy of Music (JAM) proudly announces the establishment of the JAM Legacy Fellowship, a landmark initiative created to honor the lifetime achievements of senior jazz musicians and activists whose artistry, mentorship, and service have profoundly shaped the cultural fabric of the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia (DMV).

Modeled after nationally recognized artist fellowships—most notably the Jazz Foundation of America's Jazz Legacies Fellowships initiated by the Mellon Foundation—the JAM Legacy Fellowships will recognize DMV-based musicians who have demonstrated excellence in performance while making enduring contributions to the preservation and transmission of the jazz tradition through education, mentorship, and community engagement.

The JAM Legacy Fellowship is generously funded by the Lighthouse Fund and administered by the Jazz Academy of Music under the leadership of Paul Carr, musician, educator, composer, bandleader, and producer of the annual Mid-Atlantic Jazz Festival.

Rooted in the rich jazz heritage of the DMV region, the JAM Legacy Fellowship reflects the Jazz Academy of Music's mission to celebrate, preserve, and sustain the unique legacy of jazz in the Mid-Atlantic. In a meaningful evolution of JAM's long-standing commitment to nurturing next generation of aspiring musicians, the Fellowship also honors jazz elders whose lifelong dedication has strengthened the art form and inspired generations of musicians in the region.

The Lighthouse Fund's generous support of the JAM Legacy Fellowship represents a significant expansion of the Jazz Academy of Music's community outreach and recognition efforts, directly advancing JAM's mission: to preserve and promote the art of jazz through education, mentorship, outreach, and recognition of those who have devoted their lives to this music.

"The JAM Legacy Fellowship allows us to honor the masters who have given so much of themselves to this music, while continuing to inspire the next generation to carry the tradition forward" said Paul Carr, Founder and President of the Jazz Academy of Music. We are grateful that the Lighthouse Fund recognizes and values the Jazz Academy's work and shares our commitment to honoring legacy, excellence, and service."
