/EINPresswire.com/ -- AC2 today announced that Ninja Van has achieved substantial operational improvements following the deployment of AC2 Wave WMS, a cloud-native, enterprise-grade warehouse management system designed to handle complex, high-volume B2B operations and fast-paced B2C eCommerce fulfilment.

Processing millions of parcels monthly, Ninja Van requires reliable, scalable, and accurate warehouse operations to meet strict delivery commitments. To support this, the company implemented AC2 Wave WMS to enhance real-time inventory visibility, standardize workflows, and streamline picking and packing processes under a unified, enterprise-grade warehouse management platform.

Since implementation, Ninja Van has reported a 30% increase in picking speed and a 30% improvement in overall warehouse throughput. These gains have enabled warehouse operations to consistently conclude by 6 PM, compared with previous schedules that extended to 8 PM and often required overtime, demonstrating measurable productivity and workforce efficiency improvements.

“With AC2 Wave WMS, we improved speed, accuracy, and throughput by over 30 percent. Our operations run smoother, faster, and finish earlier every day,” said Lee Tzi Zhao, Director of Supply Chain Management and Partnerships at Ninja Van.

Congratulations to Ninja Van on this remarkable achievement, and we look forward to a long-term, meaningful partnership," said Aw Yang Ueli, Founder and Managing Partner of AC2.
