RALEIGH, NC, UNITED STATES, January 6, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- California Closets of North Carolina, South Carolina, & Virginia ushered in the holiday season with its first-ever Holiday Pop-Up Market, hosted inside the Raleigh showroom and presented in partnership with The Scout Guide Raleigh.

Guests and California Closets team members shop local vendors during the California Closets Holiday Pop-Up Market.

The event featured a curated collection of 11 local Scout Guide partners, including luxury consignment boutique Season 2 Consign, lifestyle retailer Ella Collective, entertaining resource Home for Entertaining, fine art studio Colorful Concepts, gourmet confectioner Kandy Apples by K, artist Katie Jacobson Art, innovative photo specialist ZimZoom Photo Booth, beauty brand DB Sutton, interior décor company Eutopia Design, elevated charcuterie artisans Spread NC, and calligraphy artist Tanya G Studio.

We love creating meaningful experiences that connect people with design.”

Coming together in just over two weeks, the event was a resounding success—complete with local shopping, design inspiration, a door prize giveaway, and opportunities for guests to explore the beautifully designed showroom spaces reimagined as vendor displays.

“The energy was incredible,” said Ariel Chenworth, Marketing Manager for California Closets of NC, SC, & VA. “We wanted this event to celebrate the amazing local businesses we’re surrounded by and remind people that we're local too. Our designers, installers, and team members all live and work right here in the Triangle. This was a way to showcase that while giving our community a fun, elevated way to kick off the holiday season."

Each vendor—ranging from luxury consignment and calligraphy to interior design and fine art—set up shop within the showroom's distinct custom spaces. Guests could browse local goods while experiencing California Closets' craftsmanship up close, bringing the brand's "designed around you" philosophy to life.

RALEIGH

California Closets Raleigh is the flagship location of the California Closets North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia franchise.

Following the event, the team surveyed attendees and vendors to gather feedback, which was overwhelmingly positive. Vendors praised the collaboration and foot traffic, while attendees expressed excitement for future events.

"This kind of partnership represents who we are as a brand," said Graziella Marengi, Co-Owner of California Closets of NC, SC, & VA. "We love creating meaningful experiences that connect people with design. Whether it's in our Raleigh showroom or through collaborations like the Grande Dunes Night of Design in Myrtle Beach, these events let us bring creativity, craftsmanship, and community together in a personal way."

Building on the success of the Raleigh pop-up, California Closets plans to bring similar events to other markets across its region—particularly in cities where The Scout Guide is published. The company sees these gatherings as a way to build relationships, strengthen local ties, and introduce new audiences to the brand's full-service design experience.

"Our goal is to make these pop-ups a tradition," Chenworth added. "We're already talking about future collaborations in other cities and exploring new ways to engage our communities year-round."
