Playersoft today introduced HPM Lite, a host management tool designed to give smaller host teams the core capabilities they need—without the bloat and complexity of larger systems. Built as a progressive web app, HPM Lite is truly mobile, allowing hosts to work from anywhere while maintaining consistent workflows and visibility.

HPM Lite was built to help small host teams stay effective—mobile, organized, and consistent—without forcing them into a heavy system.”

Why it matters

Smaller host teams often operate with limited resources and little time for complex tools. Traditional host platforms can be overloaded with features that increase training time and administrative overhead. HPM Lite focuses on the essential host workflows and makes them accessible in a truly mobile format—so teams can stay organized, communicate consistently, and track outcomes without added complexity.

What HPM Lite delivers

- Truly mobile access via progressive web app (hardware-agnostic and designed for on-the-go host workflows).
- Guest profile build-out that supports structured relationship management and better continuity across interactions.
- Built-in communications integrations with the Playersoft SMS and email system to support consistent outreach.
- Automated data pulls from the player system for vital guest information and key KPIs—reducing manual lookups and repeat entry.

- Communication tracking so teams can document outreach, measure follow-up, and maintain a reliable record of engagement.
- A lean, simplified experience designed specifically for smaller teams—without excess features, excess cost, or excess complexity.

“HPM Lite was built to help small host teams stay effective—mobile, organized, and consistent—without forcing them into a heavy system,” said Hunter Hunstock, President at Playersoft.
