

IDX Alternative Fiat ETF (GLDB) Surpasses $30 million in AUM

Milestone comes less than two months after October launch

TAMPA, FL, UNITED STATES, January 8, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IDX Advisors, an investment advisory firm specializing in quantitative, data-driven strategies designed to reduce bias and manage risk, announces the IDX Alternative Fiat ETF (NASDAQ: GLDB) has surpassed $30 million in assets under management, as of 12/24/2025.

GLDB actively invests in a group of alternatives considered to be a combination of 'old world and new world' (Gold, Bitcoin, Silver, and Ethereum), providing dynamic exposure across two cornerstone asset classes in one ETF.

"Institutions and advisors alike are coming to the realization that sitting on the sidelines in regards to crypto is no longer tenable," said Ben McMillan, co-founder and Chief Investment Officer of IDX Advisors. "Between geopolitical events, increased client interest, and inflation uncertainty, all of which also contribute to the ever growing interest in gold and silver, we consider now to be the ideal time and circumstance to offer GLDB to a public that is clearly looking for this type of product, and the inflows are proving out that line of thinking to be correct."

Assets are chosen for their resilience during inflationary cycles and currency weakness, which provides three key benefits:

1. Designed to Hedge Inflation and Currency
2. Offers Diversified and Efficient Exposure
3. Risk Management

Because of the benefits listed above, GLDB is especially intriguing to investors seeking a balanced, Alternative FIAT solution without the complexity of managing multiple products.
