

New business plan development hub changes the way that trucking business plans are produced

Human Intelligence Business Plans is taking a novel approach for creating trucking business plans for the freight industry.

NEW HOPE, PA, UNITED STATES, January 8, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Human Intelligence Business Plans is pleased to announce the development of a new method for developing business plans specific for freight and transportation focused enterprises. The portal has been designed for trucking business plans. The new methodology can be used specifically by national, regional, and local trucking enterprises. One of the most important aspects of this new development is the implementation of state-of-the-art predictive modeling specific for energy prices which can drastically impact the income of both owner-operators and fleet operators.

This platform now includes interactive samples including a freight brokerage business plan, box truck business plan, hot shot trucking business plan, and truck dispatch business plan.

Human Intelligence Business Plans is a new brand that is part of the Deutsch and Thomas ecosystem. Their market research first approach allows for comprehensive business plans and pitch decks to be developed with actionable insight into any industry.
