Spotlight on storytelling: Mosaic Digest's latest issue features compelling interviews with literary trailblazers L.E. Summers and Alexis Anicque.

Compassionate Care: Accepting the Dementia Diagnosis

“Caregiving can make you feel incredibly isolated,” Summers states in the interview. “With their books, they hope to provide practical guidance and emotional validation, helping caregivers feel less alone and reassuring them that their feelings and struggles are normal.”

Summers highlights critical tools like the DICE model and underscores the importance of self-care, support systems, and resilience for caregivers. Their work has earned high praise from Mosaic Digest: “Their dedication to helping caregivers maintain their well-being while providing compassionate care is both inspiring and invaluable.”

Through their books and advocacy, Summers has become a vital voice in creating a dialogue around the challenges of caregiving, breaking the silence that often surrounds this life-altering task.

Alexis Anicque: A Storytelling Adventurer Inspiring Bold Living

Mosaic Digest is equally thrilled to feature an exclusive interview with Alexis Anicque, an acclaimed author and adventurer known for her compelling mix of personal experience and enchanting narratives. In the interview, Anicque offers a deep dive into her distinctive storytelling style, her life aboard a sailboat, and her celebrated works, including her non-fiction series Our Alternative Lifestyle Adventure Stories and the novel Finding Famous.

“I wanted to be an inspiration for others to live their dreams,” Anicque shares candidly. “Life is so fleeting, and I hope I help others to choose not to have regrets and take opportunities to live every moment.”

Renowned for her ability to seamlessly traverse the worlds of fiction and non-fiction, Anicque invites readers to courageously embrace life’s untold possibilities. Mosaic Digest praises her for “weaving authenticity, magic, and inspiration into stories that encourage readers to reflect,
