SAN FRANCISCO, CA, UNITED STATES,

January 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Score4Freedom, a premiere nonprofit dedicated to neutralizing online threats through peer-to-peer education, today announced a major expansion of its mission. During Super Bowl Week, the organization will host the "Digital Defense Playbook" Summit, now featuring a Youth Resource Center designed to bridge the gap between community safety and elite professional pathways.

The summit takes place on Thursday, February 5, 2026, at the San Francisco Italian Athletic Club. By integrating digital defense training with career mentorship, Score4Freedom is positioning Bay Area youth for entry into the nation's most prestigious leadership institutions.

A Powerhouse Coalition for Youth Advocacy

The event features an extraordinary lineup of speakers and mentors from the worlds of professional sports, law enforcement, and global technology:

- Allan Houston: NBA All-Star and Philanthropist.

- Jeff Debrosse: Cybersecurity Expert and U.S. Marine Corps Veteran.

"Our students are already learning to be 'Safety Ambassadors' for their communities; this career fair gives them the tactical roadmap to take that leadership to the highest level," said Allan Houston.

Redefining the Mission

Score4Freedom—a joint initiative of the San Francisco Sheriff's Junior Deputy Program and The Allan Houston Legacy Foundation—trains youth to combat digital dangers such as forced labor, cyberbullying, self-harm, and sextortion.

The expanded 2026 model shifts the focus from simple prevention to comprehensive leadership development. "We're not just educating our youth about online safety—we're launching them into leadership positions at the nation's top institutions," noted Marshall Faulk
