At Ayodya Resort Bali, sustainability is our responsibility. Through our partnership with Diversey and PlasticShreds, we are taking real action to protect Bali's oceans and future generations."

At the heart of the resort's pristine beachfront, a dedicated single-use plastic collection point now stands as a beacon of responsibility. Guests and visitors are encouraged to responsibly dispose of plastic bottles, containers, and packaging—items that, if left unmanaged, threaten Bali's coral reefs and vibrant marine life, which are vital to the island's eco-tourism.

PlasticShreds transforms discarded single-use plastics into durable, eco-friendly materials such as gravel, building blocks, and home décor. By giving new life to what was once waste, PlasticShreds demonstrates the circular economy in action—turning pollution into possibility and ## supporting sustainable waste management in Bali.

The scale of Bali's plastic pollution remains alarming. Indonesia is the world's second-largest contributor to ocean plastic waste, generating an estimated 3.2 million tons annually, with a significant portion comprising single-use plastics that end up in waterways and oceans (World Bank, 2023). In Bali alone, approximately 480,000 tons of single-use plastic waste are produced each year (UNEP, 2021), endangering marine biodiversity, threatening tourism, and affecting local livelihoods dependent on healthy ecosystems.

Vineet Mahajan, General Manager of Ayodya Resort Bali, shared, "At Ayodya Resort Bali, we see ourselves as more than a destination—we are custodians of this island's soul. Our partnership with Diversey and the launch of PlasticShreds reflect our deep respect for Bali's environment and culture. Every bottle collected is a step toward healing our oceans and ensuring a thriving future for Bali's families, children, and every living creature that calls this paradise home. At Ayodya, we believe in sustainable solutions; this is why we have also eliminated all single-use plastics from the resort, including water bottles, in-room amenities, and more."

Echoing this, Deepak Sahni, Marketing & GSA Director – Southeast Asia, Diversey – A Solenis Company, said,

"Sustainability is a shared journey. Through PlasticShreds, we are proud to work alongside Ayodya Resort Bali to transform how single-use plastics are viewed and managed in tourism hubs. This initiative is more than recycling—it is an act of hope and restoration, turning the tide on pollution and inspiring communities to care deeply for their environment."

By embedding this CSR initiative into its daily operations, Ayodya Resort Bali reinforces its leadership as one of Bali's most responsible and family-friendly resorts. The beachfront collection point not only reduces harmful waste but also serves as an educational touchpoint, engaging guests in Bali's broader story of environmental preservation, responsible tourism, and cultural respect.

Guests staying at Ayodya Resort Bali can now participate directly in Bali's fight against plastic pollution—making every moment of their holiday a conscious act of care. This initiative gives travelers the opportunity to give back to the island, ensuring their memories are forever tied to Bali's preservation and the wellbeing of future generations.
