

ONSCREEN Honored by CTA Foundation with Shalam Award for Using Technology to Combat Social Isolation at CES 2026

Honored “for incredible work using technology to combat social isolation,” this marks ONSCREEN’s third CES award in three consecutive years.

LAS VEGAS, NV, UNITED STATES, January 16, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- ONSCREEN, Inc. is proud to announce that it has received the Consumer Technology Association (CTA) Foundation’s Shalam Award, recognizing the company “for incredible work using technology to combat social isolation.”

The Shalam Award honors John and Jane Shalam for their contributions to the consumer technology industry, CTA, and their work with CTA Foundation to combat social isolation, and spotlights organizations and individuals delivering meaningful technology solutions to fight against social isolation. The CTA Foundation’s Shalam Award annually emphasizes significant, sustained impact and is evaluated by a judging committee of CTA Foundation trustees and partners.

“Technology can effectively support connection and reduce isolation, but only if it’s easy enough that people can actually use it,” said Costin Tuculescu, CEO of ONSCREEN. “We’re honored to receive the Shalam Award and grateful to the CTA Foundation for recognizing our work and the importance of simple, human-centered technology that helps people feel connected, seen, and supported.”

This recognition marks ONSCREEN’s third award at CES in three years in a row:

- 2024: Winner, AARP AgeTech After Dark Pitch Competition
- 2025: Winner, CTA Foundation Digital Health Innovation Challenge
- 2026: Winner, CTA Foundation John and Jane Shalam Award to Combat Social Isolation
