January 20, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --

American IRA is pleased to announce an upcoming educational webinar featuring John Hamrick Jr., an experienced insurance professional and longtime real estate investor, focused on the role insurance plays in protecting rental and investment properties—an area where many investors lack clarity.

With more than 30 years of experience as an insurance agent and decades as an active real estate investor, John provides insight into how investment properties are insured and how underwriting decisions are made. He will explain what insurers evaluate, what can trigger additional scrutiny, and how investors can better prepare to reduce surprises and coverage gaps.

Drawing on his experience as president of the Triad Real Estate Investors Association (REIA) in North Carolina, John shares practical insights shaped by years of working directly with investors and educating audiences at all experience levels.

What You'll Learn:

- How rental and investment property insurance works and why coverage choices matter.
- How insurers underwrite investment properties and common reasons for added scrutiny.
- How changing insurance markets and emerging risks affect growing portfolios.

This webinar offers real estate investors practical guidance for navigating insurance and underwriting with greater confidence.
