Bilanzich joins Mirasys at a pivotal moment as the company continues its strong growth trajectory and expands its advanced AI suite to meet increasing demand from enterprise, public sector, and healthcare organizations. His primary focus will be driving new account growth, expanding strategic partnerships, and strengthening Mirasys' presence in high-impact verticals.

"Opportunity for growth was the defining factor for me," said Bilanzich. "Mirasys is clearly on a trajectory for serious expansion over the next five years, particularly with its AI capabilities. What truly set the company apart was the white-glove level of support and the ease of use of the platform—two things customers are actively looking for but rarely find together."

Bilanzich added that experiencing the company culture firsthand solidified his decision to join. "After meeting with Carl and Max, it was immediately clear that this was the right place. The culture, leadership, and vision are all aligned. I see Mirasys taking a leadership role in the AI-driven VMS space in the years ahead, and I'm excited to help drive that forward—especially within the public sector and healthcare markets."
