

Community Partners Make Christmas a Season of Care and Hope at Sunny Glen Children's Home

SAN BENITO, TX, UNITED STATES, January 22, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Sunny Glen Children's Home experienced a meaningful outpouring of generosity this past December as individuals, families, churches, businesses, and organizations came together to support children during the Christmas season.

Throughout the month, community partners stepped forward to surround the children at Sunny Glen with care, encouragement, and connection. Their involvement helped shape a holiday season rooted in dignity, belonging, and compassion for children who have experienced trauma.

Christmas support centered around Sunny Glen's annual 12 Days of Christmas and the Christmas Parade and Gift Drop Off, both designed to bring warmth and reassurance into daily life. While children enjoyed special moments and practical support, the heart of the season was the people who chose to show up for them.

"We believe God's love is often felt through people, and this Christmas our community lived that out in powerful ways," said Wayne Lowry, Interim CEO of Sunny Glen Children's Home. "The support we received helped create moments of comfort, joy, and belonging for children who truly needed it."

Community contributions supported simple but meaningful experiences, including winter clothing, comfortable bedding, shared meals, creative activities, and opportunities for play and togetherness. These acts of generosity helped children feel comfortable, valued, and safe during
