

Boyd Engineering Supply Company Transitions to Boone & Boone

Same Trusted Team, Stronger Support

ALBUQUERQUE, NM, UNITED STATES, January 22, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Boyd Engineering Supply Company, a long-time trusted name in pump and HVAC solutions, announced it will transition its brand identity to Boone & Boone, a 100% employee-owned company. The move reflects Boone & Boone's commitment to preserving the relationships and service that have defined Boyd while providing expanded resources and support for customers.

The same employees customers know and trust will remain in place. What changes under Boone & Boone is the ability to deliver greater inventory access, enhanced education and training, and improved service support across the region.

Customers will still work with the same people who have earned their trust over the years, now supported by an employee-owned company with broader resources and a long-term commitment to service.”

Kyle DelPiano, vice president corporate marketing

“This transition isn't about changing what customers value, it's about strengthening it,” said Kyle DelPiano, vice president corporate marketing. “Customers will still work with the same people who have earned their trust over the years, now supported by an employee-owned company with broader resources and a long-term commitment to service.”

The move to Boone & Boone also highlights a key distinction: the company is employee-owned. This structure ensures that decisions remain focused on long-term customer relationships and sustainable growth rather than short-term financial gains.

Key Benefits for Customers Under Boone & Boone:

- Stronger Inventory & Availability – Customers now gain access to on-demand inventory spread across six distribution centers, ensuring faster delivery and product availability when it matters most.
- Expanded Education & Training – From Lunch & Learns to hands-on product support,
