In addition to its restaurants, Guaca Go is well known throughout South Florida for its mobile catering presence at major sporting and cultural events, including the South Florida Fair, Delray Beach Open, Cognizant Classic, spring training at Roger Dean Stadium, Miami Open, and Formula 1 weekend in Miami. Guaca Go continues to grow as a multi-unit brand with plans for continued expansion while staying rooted in its Florida origins.

About Guaca Go

Founded in 2017, Guaca Go began as a South Florida catering and events concept built around one simple idea: guacamole should be made fresh daily and served as the star of the meal.

After quickly gaining a loyal following, founders Carson Bennett and Amber Benjamin opened the brand's first brick-and-mortar restaurant in 2020. Guaca Go operates locations in West Palm Beach, Delray Beach, and Tequesta, with Royal Palm Beach slated for later in the year. Known for its house-made guacamole, clean ingredients, and fully customizable bowls, the brand offers gluten-free, vegan, and seed-oil-free options — all delivered with fast service and a fun, Florida-inspired vibe.
