

Coro Health and CareLink360 Announce Content Distribution Partnership to Expand Engagement and Wellness in Home Health

Partnership marks Coro Health's move into booming home-health care industry

AUSTIN, TX, UNITED STATES, January 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Coro Health, a leading provider of music, faith, and entertainment engagement solutions for senior living and acute care, today announced a new content distribution partnership with CareLink360, a technology-enabled home health platform focused on improving connection, engagement, and quality of life for patients and families.

Through this partnership, Coro Health's curated Music, Faith, and Entertainment content will be delivered to CareLink360's home health customers via the CareLink360 Digital Health Companion®, expanding the tablet's existing engagement and wellness offerings.

Home health represents a significant new market for Coro Health, whose solutions are already widely used across senior living communities, hospitals, and post-acute care settings. As home health continues to grow rapidly—outpacing senior living in both scale and adoption—this partnership enables Coro Health to extend its proven engagement model directly into the home, supporting individuals where they live.

“Home health opens an entirely new opportunity to deliver meaningful, therapeutic, and uplifting content beyond traditional care environments,” said David Schofman, CEO of Coro Health. “By partnering with CareLink360, we're able to reach individuals aging-in-place with our clinically proven music, faith, and entertainment experiences that support emotional well-being, connection, and quality of life.”

David Schofman, Founder

The multi-patented CareLink360 Digital Health Companion® is a safe, secure and easy to use platform designed specifically for aging adults and home health use. In addition to Coro Health’s content, the CareLink360 offers users, families, and care teams:

- Live video calling
- Photo and video sharing
- Appointment, hydration, medication and other important health and wellness reminders
- Family engagement tools

- Insight reports that identify cognitive stability or decline along with other health and wellness indicators allowing family caregivers and extended care teams from home care agencies the ability to dynamically change care plans

The Digital Health Companion® also houses a comprehensive library of health and wellness resources, including cognitive exercises and physical fitness modules, all designed to support person-centered care through a holistic approach to health and well-being.

“This partnership strengthens our mission to keep our users connected, engaged, and supported at home,” said David S. DuPlay, CEO of CareLink360 and Co-Founder and CEO of Unity Global Care Inc. “Coro Health’s content enhances our platform by adding trusted, familiar, and emotionally resonant experiences that complement clinical care and deepen family involvement.”

By combining CareLink360’s home health technology with Coro Health’s industry-leading engagement content, the partnership delivers a differentiated solution for home health providers seeking to improve patient satisfaction, engagement, and overall outcomes.
