NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, February 16, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Wingate, Russotti, Shapiro, Moses & Halperin, LLP (WRSMH) is proud to announce that attorneys Stephen Wagner and Erin Hurley successfully secured a $3,950,000.00 settlement for a 32-year-old New Jersey laborer who was seriously injured in a construction site accident in Brooklyn.

The case was set to proceed to trial in Kings County, New York. Although a private mediation held one week prior did not result in a resolution, the defendants significantly increased their offer shortly before trial. As a result of the exhaustive preparation by WRSMH attorneys, the case was favorably resolved for the client right before jury selection.

The incident occurred while the client was working beneath an active cement pour on a Brooklyn job site. Without warning, the cement deck partially collapsed, sending wet cement, plywood, and a metal beam crashing down onto him. The impact caused serious physical injuries and psychological trauma.

As a result of the accident, the client underwent multiple surgeries, including back surgery with hardware implantation, shoulder surgery, and knee surgery. He was also diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder.
