service innovation and experiences.

Prof. Demirkan is recognized for bridging industry and academia. His contributions include:

--Thought Leadership: Extensive research and science-enabled solution development on service systems innovation, data-, information-, and analytics-as-services, cognitive science and AI services, T-shaped professionals, and the future of talent in the AI Era.

--Program Development: Establishing and managing major ISSIP initiatives, including conferences, publications, badges/credentials, research programs, research competitions, and event series.

--Strategic Growth: As a founding board member, he is co-developing and spearheading the ISSIP for-fee credential program in the context of innovation of services & experiences with and for Artificial Intelligence.

According to the nomination tribute, Prof. Demirkan "has had a hand in establishing and running most of ISSIP major programs," making him a highly deserving recipient of this founder-level recognition.

About the ISSIP Founders' Mentoring Medal

The ISSIP Founders' Mentoring Medal celebrates the vital role mentoring plays in driving progress and excellence within the field. The Medal honors those who generously share expertise to nurture and inspire future generations of professionals. Recipients are evaluated on four key criteria:

Impact: Demonstrable effects on the careers of mentees and the community.

Commitment: Consistent, long-term dedication beyond regular duties.

Leadership: Recognized influence in guiding others.

Values Alignment: Adherence to ISSIP's core values of collaboration, innovation, and excellence.

Selection Process

For this inaugural 2025 medal, nominations were reviewed by the ISSIP presidents from the preceding five years: Deb Stokes, Utpal Mangla, Terri Griffith, Ulf Vinneras, and Gerhard Gudergan. The award, which includes a physical plaque and digital badge, was formally presented during the January 2026 ISSIP Progress call with its Board of Directors and global community.
