

LendingPad Named 2026 HousingWire Tech100 Mortgage Winner for Third Consecutive Year

Cloud-Native LOS Leader Celebrates Decade of Innovation with Three-Year Streak of Industry Recognition

MCLEAN, VA, UNITED STATES, February 3, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --

LendingPad, a modern cloud-native loan origination system (LOS), has been named a 2026 HousingWire Tech100 Mortgage winner for the third consecutive year (2024, 2025, 2026).

The recognition underscores LendingPad's momentum as the platform of choice for lenders, brokers, bankers, and credit unions seeking faster cycle times, tighter compliance, and a better borrower experience.

“For a decade, we’ve focused on orchestrating a simpler, faster lending process with technology people actually enjoy using,” said Wes Yuan, CEO of LendingPad. “Earning Tech100 honors three years running validates our approach: a high-velocity, cloud-native LOS that reduces friction, adapts to change, and helps our customers win in any market.”

Built by mortgage professionals, LendingPad is engineered for speed, clarity, and scale. Its cloud-native architecture centralizes collaboration, automates routine work, and limits compliance risk while an open, enterprise-grade API ecosystem makes it easy to connect with key partners and adapt to evolving regulations.

Customer outcomes continue to drive product direction:

- 95 - 96% reported customer satisfaction across the user base
- 100+ new features and integrations launched in the past year

- A robust, full compliance testing module introduced to meet changing regulatory needs

LendingPad's user-driven design shortens training ramps, reduces task completion times, and eliminates workflow bottlenecks, enabling teams to close loans more efficiently and retire redundant systems, lowering total cost of ownership while improving borrower experiences.
