

BioTalent Canada: Supporting Canadian Bio-Economy Professionals

CALGARY, ALBERTA, CANADA, February 4, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As Canada moves toward a more sustainable economy, the connection between workforce development and environmental innovation has never been more critical. That's why ECO IMPACT 2026 happening February 19-20, is the perfect stage for leaders like BioTalent Canada, our proud Sustainability Partner to showcase how talent strategies fuel progress in both the bio-economy and the green economy.

Why BioTalent Canada Matters in the Sustainability Conversation

BioTalent Canada is more than a workforce development council, it's a catalyst for growth in one of Canada's most vital sectors. By providing evidence-based labour market intelligence and connecting employers with job-ready talent, BioTalent Canada ensures the bio-economy remains agile, resilient, and sustainable.

This mission aligns perfectly with ECO Impact's goals: creating a future where environmental innovation and workforce readiness go hand in hand. With Canada's bio-economy projected to need 65,000 new workers by 2029, BioTalent Canada's leadership in talent development is essential for meeting sustainability challenges head-on.

ECO IMPACT 2026: Where Ideas and Action Meet

ECO Impact is more than an event, it's a hub for collaboration, learning, and transformation. Over two days, attendees will:

- Explore cutting-edge sustainability solutions.
- Learn about workforce strategies that support green growth.
- Connect with industry leaders and innovators driving change.

BioTalent Canada's presence as our Sustainability Partner reinforces the importance of people-powered progress in building a sustainable future.
