

Collaborative Practice California Announces 5th Annual Divorce with Respect Week®

SAN FRANCISCO, CA, UNITED STATES, February 6, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Collaborative Practice California (CPCAL) has shared plans for the fifth annual Divorce with Respect Week® from March 1 to 8, 2026. Participating CPCAL members will offer free divorce consultations during Divorce With Respect Week. These consultations are an opportunity to learn more about different options for how to handle a divorce by staying out of court and choosing non-adversarial divorce processes like Collaborative Divorce.

Collaborative Divorce is a method of resolving divorce issues where couples work with a team of divorce professionals to craft an agreement that is best suited for their changing family. Clients work together in a respectful way, keeping in mind the importance of protecting their children and other involved people from conflict. Decisions are made by the participants without the involvement of a judge or other decision authority.

During Divorce with Respect Week®, individuals or couples can speak with divorce professionals, including attorneys, mental health professionals and financial specialists about their case for free. To schedule a free consultation with a California Collaborative Divorce professional go to www.divorcewithrespectweek.com.

Collaborative Practice California is a statewide organization of Collaborative Divorce Practice groups comprised of collaborative lawyers, mental health practitioners, financial specialists, and other professionals on a mission to unify, strengthen, support the Collaborative Practice community, and increase public awareness of the Collaborative Divorce Process throughout California.
