history, and landmarks into a custom coloring book. All the organization needs to provide is the text. Really Big Coloring Books® Inc. delivers the rest — illustration, layout, printing, publishing, and distribution. “Communities want positive, accurate ways to showcase who they are,” said Wayne Bell, publisher at Really Big Coloring Books® Inc. “If you can write the text about your community, we can build the entire coloring book around your words — from the cover art to the last page. These books also have the opportunity to appear on Amazon, Walmart.com, ColoringBook.com, and other distribution outlets.”

Really Big Coloring Books® Inc. offers complete, full-custom coloring book services, including professional illustration and graphic design by in-house artists and designers. Included is editing, layout, and prepress support to help organizations finalize content. Resulting in high-quality printing on U.S.-made paper and environmentally conscious practices. Nationwide shipping and distribution options for schools, nonprofits, governments, and businesses. This turnkey model makes it easy for community associations, visitors bureaus, city offices, churches, cultural centers, festivals, and small businesses to create branded coloring books that reflect their identity and values. ColoringBook.com showcases the benefits of printed products in coloring and activity books, creating lifelong memories for users.

Ideal for education, tourism, and fundraising. Custom community coloring books are designed for a variety of uses, including classroom education, tourism promotion, and fundraising projects. Schools and youth programs can teach local history, cultural heritage, and civic pride through interactive coloring pages. Visitors bureaus and tourism offices can highlight attractions, historical sites, and local businesses in a family-friendly format. Nonprofits, churches, and community groups can use custom coloring books as effective fundraising tools that also share their mission and story. For more than three decades, Really Big Coloring Books® Inc. has partnered with organizations worldwide to design custom coloring and activity books that engage children and adults alike.

consistent branding across print and digital channels. Create long-lasting, shareable content that families keep and revisit. Organizations can also feature their coloring books on their websites, social media, and email campaigns, linking back to their order pages on ColoringBook.com or their own ecommerce platforms.

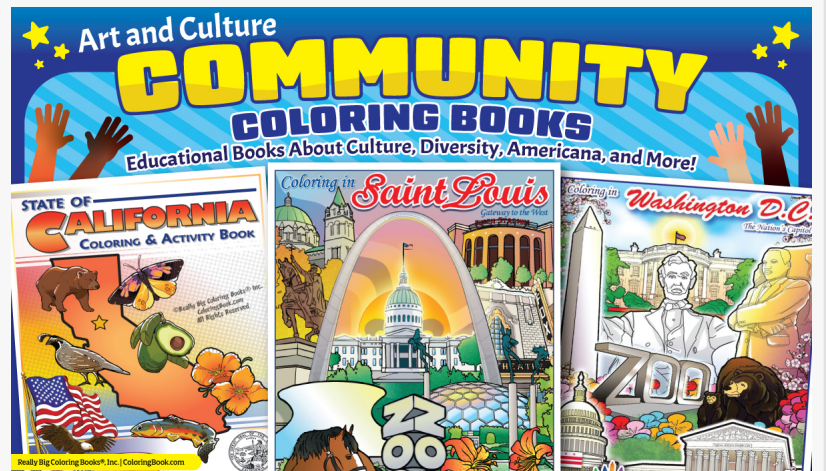

Educating neighborhoods and locations on how to start their Community Coloring Book. Launching a custom community coloring book with Really Big Coloring Books® Inc. is simple, says publisher Wayne Bell. We have them write or compile the text that tells your community's story, highlights, or key messages. They send text and any reference photos or logos to info@coloringbook.com. We collaborate with the group's team on page count, format, and quantity. We carefully review proofs and approval for printing as desired by the community. Our company can help market and sell books in your local community. Books are provided to the community at wholesale/manufacturing costs, and they can be retailed at 2-4 times that cost for fundraising efforts in local communities.

From there, Really Big Coloring Books® Inc. manages production and ships books directly to your organization or designated locations.
