-- Exults has been named a Featured Partner by Intaker, a leading intake and client conversion platform for law firms. The recognition highlights Exults' role in supporting law firms with digital strategies that align marketing performance with intake efficiency.

Intaker's partnerships page features companies that help law firms improve how potential clients find, contact, and engage with their firm. By listing Exults as a featured partner, Intaker underscores the growing importance of aligning marketing visibility with seamless intake experiences.

Marketing doesn't stop at visibility. Firms need systems in place that support the full client journey, from first click to first call and beyond.”

Zach Hoffman

For law firms, the connection between marketing and intake has become increasingly important. As search behavior shifts and competition intensifies, firms must ensure that the traffic they generate translates into real conversations and qualified leads.

“Marketing doesn't stop at visibility,” said Zach Hoffman, a leading law firm marketing expert and CEO of Exults. “Firms need systems in place that support the full client journey, from first click to first call and beyond.”

The partnership recognition reflects a shared focus on helping law firms improve both client acquisition and conversion. Exults works with firms to strengthen digital visibility across search, paid media, and AI-driven platforms, while Intaker provides intake tools designed to capture and manage incoming leads efficiently.

By aligning marketing strategy with intake performance, law firms can gain clearer insight into what's driving growth and where improvements can be made. This approach is especially valuable for firms operating in competitive markets, where missed calls or inefficient intake processes can directly impact revenue.

Exults' inclusion as a featured partner reinforces its ongoing work with law firms seeking scalable, long-term growth strategies that extend beyond short-term tactics.
