Alliance Creative Group, Inc., (<http://www.ACGX.us>), a publicly traded marketing and technology company, (Stock Symbol OTC: ACGX), today announced the launch of its new AI Video Marketing landing page — marketing.acgx.ai — providing businesses with a subscription-based solution to publish high-quality short-form videos at scale without traditional production headaches.

The new platform is designed to help brands, creators, and businesses solve one of today’s biggest marketing challenges: producing large volumes of high-quality short-form video content consistently, affordably, and without the delays and costs of traditional production.

As demand for Reels, Shorts, and video ads continues to accelerate across social platforms, many businesses struggle to keep up due to high agency fees, inconsistent freelancers, and time-intensive production cycles. Alliance Creative AI’s subscription model offers a scalable alternative — delivering professionally generated AI videos at prices as low as $26 per video, depending on plan and volume.

“Our goal was simple: remove friction from video marketing,” said Paul Sorkin, CEO of Alliance Creative Group. “Most brands know they need daily or weekly video content, but traditional production doesn’t scale well. Our AI video subscription allows businesses to publish consistently, stay relevant, and convert attention into revenue — without blowing their budget.”

The AI Video Subscription Platform includes:

- * Monthly Video Subscriptions with predictable pricing and no long-term contracts
- * High-Volume Content Production optimized for short-form platforms like Instagram Reels, TikTok, YouTube Shorts, and paid ads
- * Affordable Per-Video Pricing, as low as $26 per video based on subscription tier
- * No Filming or On-Camera Requirements, eliminating production crews, studios, and reshoots
- * Brand-Aligned Content, including hooks, captions, CTAs, and platform-specific formats

The platform enables businesses to scale content output rapidly while maintaining brand consistency — making it especially attractive to startups, ecommerce brands, service providers, agencies, and influencers seeking reliable content velocity.

This launch represents another step in ACGX's broader strategy to build recurring, subscription-based revenue models while leveraging AI technology to deliver real-world marketing results. The company plans to continue expanding its AI marketing offerings through additional product and industry-specific solutions and automated creative services throughout 2026.
