

Mission Mobile Medical Invests in the Future Through Second Annual Scholarship Program

Expanded scholarships underscore the company's investment in people, families, and shared success.

GREENSBORO, NC, UNITED STATES, February 12, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Mission Mobile Medical Group today announced the recipients of its second annual Mission Mobile Medical Scholarship Program, awarding $12,000 in academic scholarships to family members of employees pursuing higher education.

The scholarship program reflects the organization's ongoing investment in its people and the families who support its mission. The 2026 recipients — Josh Dick, Grace Mabe, Alexander Hicks, Maya Barber, Ivan Briseno, and Gus Rosen — were selected through a competitive application process that evaluated academic achievement, personal accomplishments, and a written reflection on their educational and career goals.

Being a great place to work means showing up for our team in meaningful ways. This scholarship program is recognition that when we support education, we strengthen the communities we serve.”

“Our responsibility goes beyond the work we do and into the people and families who make it possible. Being a great place to work means showing up for our team in meaningful ways,” said Amanda LeFever, President and CFO of Mission Mobile Medical. “This scholarship program is recognition that, as servant leaders, when we support education, we strengthen the communities we serve.”

The scholarship program is open to spouses, children, and dependents of employees enrolled in accredited colleges, universities, and vocational or technical programs. Applicants were required to submit academic records, proof of enrollment, and a minimum 750-word essay reflecting on their perspectives on leadership, community service, and healthcare. Scholarship funds are distributed directly to recipients' educational institutions.

The 2026 awards mark a significant expansion of the program. In its inaugural year, Mission Mobile Medical awarded $3,000 in scholarship funds. This year, the organization increased both the number of recipients and the award amounts in response to the high quality of applications received, and plans to increase again in 2026.

The Mission Mobile Medical Scholarship Program is one of several initiatives designed to support employee engagement, development, and retention, reinforcing the organization's mission to Build the World's Greatest Place to Work.
